MEDIA RELEASE

CALL FOR COMMUNITIES TO NOMINATE THEIR LOCAL MOBILE PHONE BLACKSPOTS

Database to be updated to respond to community needs

13 September 2018

The Federal Government is calling on mobile black spot nominations from local, territory and state governments as well as Federal Members of Parliament, to identify locations for the next round of the $220 million Mobile Black Spot Program.

Round 4 of the program was announced in June this year with the Coalition investing $25 million to eliminate mobile black spots in regional Australia.

Minister for Regional Services, Senator Bridget McKenzie, said this next round affirms the Coalition's commitment to delivering 21st century communications in the regions and will deliver real benefits for our communities.

"I'm delighted to see the next round of the program coming to fruition. The program is changing lives for so many regional and remote communities across Australia."

"We're taking a targeted approach this time around to deliver a clear economic benefit. We are calling on state, territory and local governments, as well as our parliamentary colleagues, to nominate mobile black spot areas in their region where economic as well as social benefits can be realised," Minister McKenzie said.

"Round 4 will also target improved mobile coverage for medical, educational and emergency services facilities, as well as along key transport routes and in towns that experience seasonal demand due to tourism."

The program has been highly successful with more than 600 of the total 867 base stations already delivered across the country under the first three rounds of the program. More than $680 million has been generated in co-investment from state and local governments, carriers, businesses and local communities.

Authorised by B McKenzie, The National Party, Bendigo VIC

“Through the program we have encouraged much needed investment by mobile operators in regional Australia. This has brought real benefits and connectivity to thousands of households and businesses across the nation.”

Local communities are encouraged to get in touch with their Federal Member of Parliament or local council to nominate mobile black spot locations.

The Government will soon call for applications from carriers to be selected through a competitive process. For more information on the program visit: www.communications.gov.au/mbssp

McIntosh, William: Pegged the McIntosh mine at Parkers Range in 1888, which developed into the premier mine and biggest employer at the little settlement. He was well sinking at Moorine when Parker rode in to replenish his water.

Suspecting that Parker had found gold, McIntosh back-tracked him for 40 miles to Parker's new discovery and pegged nearby. Not having the money to mine in his own right, McIntosh sold his lease and continued working for wages. He eventually left for Pingelly where he bought a pub.

LYN PRICE

Just few details regarding Lyn's service to the Southern Cross Golf Club.

Lyn has served on the committee for some 28 years. Lyn was ladies captain in 1981 and again from 2014 until now and also vice captain for many years.

Lyn left the club to play at Westonia and returned to Southern Cross in 2000.

In 2001 Lyn volunteered to be the club treasurer a position she held for 17 consecutive years. Lyn was an excellent treasurer making sure every dollar was accounted for.

Lyn also served on the catering committee in the 70's and 80's and again when she rejoined the club until today. I remember on one occasion when we where catering Lyn cut her finger badly and ended up in Merredin for stitches. That was a very novel way of getting out of catering and also put paid to her golf playing for about a month.

So for her very loyal and dedicated service the members would like to award Lyn with Life Membership to the Southern Cross Golf Club.

New guidance on consumer guarantees and the motor vehicle industry

New car fact sheet

New car buyers, including small businesses, can expect to receive a fact sheet that will explain their consumer guarantee rights at the point of purchase. This week, the ACCC released the Just bought a new car? (<https://www.accc.gov.au/publications/just-bought-a-new-car>) fact sheet which provides information about what consumers can expect and the remedies available if there is a problem with their new car.

Consumer guarantee rights provide remedies to consumers, including small businesses in many circumstances, if their new car experiences a failure. These potential remedies under the Australian Consumer Law (ACL) include:

- a right to a repair (without charge) for a minor failure, or
- a replacement or a full refund of the car for a major failure.

The fact sheet follows the recent ACCC market study (<https://www.accc.gov.au/publications/new-car-retailing-industry-market-study-final-report>) into the new car retailing industry. This market study found that consumers don't receive adequate information about their automatic consumer guarantees at the point of purchase, and need information that can be referred to at any time during their ownership of their car.

As industry best practice, new car dealers are expected to provide a copy of the fact sheet to consumers at the point of purchase of a new car.

Motor vehicle sales & repairs guide

The ACCC has also published an updated version of the Motor vehicle sales & repairs guide. (<https://www.accc.gov.au/publications/motor-vehicle-sales-repairs-an-industry-guide-to-the-australian-consumer-law>). This guide addresses issues identified in the market study, including specific guidance on criteria for determining a 'major failure'.

The guide can help authorised dealers, vehicle manufacturers, independent repairers, and other businesses within the industry by providing an in-depth explanation of industry rights and obligations under the ACL.

We have updated this guide in consultation with the state and territory ACL regulators and a number of car manufacturers and industry associations.

Working together towards communities free of suicide

CSBP Fertilisers announces a new community partnership with Lifeline WA to invest in the training of telephone crisis supporters.

Lifeline WA provides people experiencing a personal crisis with access to online, phone and face-to-face crisis support and suicide prevention services.

According to Lifeline WA, one person dies to suicide every day in Western Australia and those in regional areas are at a much greater risk. Limited access to mental health services, increased travel times to get help and a stigma around mental illness in many smaller communities contribute to the higher rates.

CSBP Fertilisers General Manager Tanya Rybarczyk, said that the partnership aligns with CSBP's core values and addressed a deeply concerning trend in regional communities.

"CSBP Fertilisers is committed to investing in our regional communities and we wanted to band together to create a stronger network of support for those experiencing a personal crisis or supporting their loved ones.

"For many people living in regional WA, a call to Lifeline may be the only option that they have due to lack of services or anonymity and we feel that no call should go unanswered," said Tanya.

Lifeline's telephone crisis support is answered by volunteers. These volunteers undergo over 170 hours of training and mentoring before they are accredited to become crisis support volunteers.

Lifeline WA CEO Lorna MacGregor, said the partnership with CSBP Fertilisers will provide much needed crisis support volunteers.

"We currently have 178 telephone crisis supporters in Western Australia, but need to double this number to answer every call that comes in from the 46,000 Western Australians who call Lifeline WA every year," said Lorna.

'Working Together to Prevent Suicide' is the theme of today's World Suicide Prevention Day highlighting the importance of collaboration in suicide prevention. Together, through this corporate partnership, CSBP and Lifeline WA can help more regional Western Australians in need.

About CSBP Fertilisers and Lifeline WA

For over 100 years CSBP Fertilisers has sold fertilisers to Western Australians, and is committed to playing an active role in supporting sustainable agricultural communities, working with organisations that understand how to make a difference in our regional communities.

Lifeline WA is the leading provider of suicide prevention and crisis support services in Western Australia. Lifeline WA delivers the 13 11 14 service, a nationally-routed crisis support number, available to all Western Australians 24 hours a day, every day of the year.

On the 21st September, all of us at Southern Cross Tyre and Auto Services will be helping raise money for the McGrath Foundation through the "Pink Fitters Day." On this day, Kumho Tyre Dealers around Australia will be wearing Pink in support. Along with the proceeds from the Pink Shirts, there are also $2 'New Car Scent' Air Fresheners on our counter for donation and for every tyre we sell and fit on the day, we will donate $10 towards the cause.

Supporting the McGrath Foundation will assist is helping place much needed McGrath Breast Care Nurses in communities across Australia to help make the lives of families experiencing breast cancer a little bit easier.

We ask you to please support us in helping with this wonderful cause.
